4 WORKSHOP AIMS

The partners of INTERPROFESSIONAL.GLOBAL, the Global Confederation for Interprofessional Education & Collaborative Practice (formerly known as World Coordinating Committee of All Together Better Health), met in Auckland, New Zealand, for a 3-day Partnership Development Workshop with the following aims and expectations:

- To build trusting relationships and mutual concern for one another and for the international interprofessional education and collaborative practice (IPECP) movement,
- To expand the organisation by forming a confederation of worldwide IPECP networks, which include the participation of service users and students,
- To reach consensus on the vision, mission, and objectives of the confederation
- To develop a strategic workplan for the organisation ensuring sustainability, which includes, among others,
 - the development of a communications strategy to promote IPECP globally, and
 - the establishment of stronger links with other international organisations like WHO, UNESCO, etc.

View the full list of aims and expectations in Appendix A.

Partnership comes straight from the heart of interprofessionalism. Working in partnership reflects the unity we see in working with, for and between service providers and service users. Partnership is one important way in which the unity of a bio-psycho-social-spiritual approach is demonstrated to the world. The following principles have been observed to be important in the development of effective partnerships and they are wholly consistent with Interprofessional Education and Collaborative Practice. We followed these principles during our deliberations.

Leadership

1. Effective Partnerships seek the direction from each other in all they do

Partners are refreshed and empowered by sharing and caring together for one another's personal needs as well as for the work.

2. Effective Partnerships have a Facilitator or a Facilitation Team

Partnership does not just happen. It takes a person or a team of people committed to partnership and acceptable to all the partners. They serve the whole partnership, enabling it to function.

Direction

3. Effective Partnerships have a clear Purpose

Only a partnership that is formed to fulfil a specific vision is likely to be effective. Partnership for partnership's sake spells failure.

4. Effective Partnerships start by identifying Needs before shaping Structure

An effective partnership starts by identifying barriers to progress and from these agree on priorities for action; it doesn't try to establish conditions for membership or write a common Statement of Incorporation! Function (what the partnership can do) should always come before Form (how the partnership is structured). Consensus is usually better than Constitution.

5. Effective Partnerships have clear, well-defined Objectives

In the early days, objectives will be limited and achievable. However, they must be significant enough to provide motivation for the partnership. As the partnership experiences progress, the objectives that are set become more challenging.

6. Effective Partnerships keep their eyes on the Ultimate Vision

It is easy to focus on the "means" rather than the "end". An effective partnership keeps focused on the long-term vision and does not get distracted by day-to-day operational demands.

Effective Working

7. Effective Partnerships are built on relationships of trust, openness and mutual concern

Partnership is more than coordination and planning. The heart of the partnership is restored relationships, demonstrated as well as proclaimed. Developing such relationships requires time and intentional effort. Effective partners are especially sensitive towards those from cultures and backgrounds other than their own.

8. Effective Partnerships focus on what the partners have in common rather than on what makes them different

Unity is encouraged by sharing things of the heart like vision, values and common goals. Discussing differences in philosophy, history and work experience divides. However, it is important to acknowledge – even celebrate – these differences from time to time.

9. Effective Partnerships maintain a high level of Participation and Ownership by the Partners

Ownership and commitment to the process are encouraged by wide participation of all the partners in decision-making.

10. Effective Partnerships impart the vision and skills for partnership development to all the partners continuously

It is important for partners to catch the vision for partnership and to develop skills in partnering. This may include training in partnership development on occasions when the partnership meets. An effective partnership expects problems, especially at times of leadership change, and develops processes for managing them.

11. Effective Partnerships do not come Free of Charge

Just participating costs time and money so all partners are investing in some way. Deeper commitment involves an even greater investment, but the benefits more than outweigh these costs.

12. Effective Partners recognise that Partnership is an on-going process, not an event

The early stages of developing a partnership take time. Call a meeting too soon and the process is likely to fail. The development of trust is essential before the potential partners come together. Later, time for nurturing trust and processing issues is equally important. It is even more challenging to maintain a partnership than to launch one.

13. Effective Partners recognise that they have various constituencies whose needs must be acknowledged and whose contributions must be valued

There are more people and interests involved in a partnership than those that sit around the table. The constituencies involved include the leaders and staff of the partner organisations, the supporters of these organisations, the people we are seeking to serve and the partnership itself. Effective partners understand the needs of each of these groups and seek to meet them. They also acknowledge and value the contributions each makes.

14. Effective Partners celebrate

It is important for partners to frequently celebrate the achievements of individual partners and the partnership as a whole.

Effective Partners

14. Effective Partners have an 'Advocate' for Partnership in their own Organisation

This is a person who sees how their own organisation can benefit from practical cooperation and who will share this vision with their colleagues. Without such a person, the commitment of the organisation to the partnership is likely to be half-hearted at best.

15. Effective Partners have clear identities and visions

Partners who have a strong sense of their own identity and calling are most likely to be effective. If the individual partners do not have a clear vision for their own organisation, they will have difficulty seeing where they can contribute to the overall picture or benefit from the joint effort.

6 OVERVIEW OF IPECP: GLOBAL TO REGIONAL

John Gilbert (WHO) provided a global overview of IPE. He also referred to Hugh Barr's (2015) publication "Interprofessional Education - The Genesis of a Global Movement".

Each region provided feedback regarding their organisation, its strategy, plans, breakthroughs and stumbling blocks:

2. American Interprofessional Health Collaborative (AIHC): PowerPoint

7 SOAR ANALYSIS

Following the exercise getting to know each other better and to get a clearer understanding of the global and regional status of IPECP (including breakthroughs and stumbling blocks) a SOAR analysis was undertaken (Strength – Opportunities – Aspirations – Results). A SOAR analysis is based on Appreciative Inquiry, which enables organizations to build their own generative theory for enabling transformational shifts by learning from their most positively exceptional moments. The traditional approach to change is to look for the problem, do a diagnosis, and find a solution. The primary focus is on what is wrong or broken; since we look for problems, we find them. By paying attention to problems, we emphasize and amplify them. Appreciative Inquiry suggests that we look for what works in an organization. It is an alternative to SWOT in the strategic planning process, focussing on the positive rather than insurmountable problems, and on 'what should be' rather than 'what is'.

STRATEGIC INQUIRY	STRENGTHS What are our greatest assets	OPPORTUNITIES What are the best possible market opportunities
APPRECIATIVE INTENT	ASPIRATIONS What is our preferred future	RESULTS What are the measurable results

8 SETTING PRIORITIES AND ACTION PLANS

Taking all these factors from our analysis (See above) into consideration, i.e. the overview of current activities, breakthroughs, facilitators, barriers (Appendix C) and the SOAR analysis (Appendix B), the group then went through a process to prioritise realistic action steps for the next 2 years.

The following priorities were agreed upon:

10.3 POLICY DEVELOPMENT WORKING GROUP

Description	Policy is a bedrock for system change. The system change that we are trying to inform concerns IPECP. For example, at the present time we do not have a clear consensus statement about IPECP. IPECP has been a nebulous notion leading to multiple interpretations of its applicability. It has also been some time since the Framework for Action on Interprofessional Education & Collaborative Practice and the Sydney Declaration have been revisited and updated. Therefore, the working is tasked with developing a briefing note, i.e. a short paper that quickly and effectively inform decision-makers about IPECP, and updating the documents mentioned to serve as the guideline for IPECP implementers.
Objectives	To inform IPECP policy development the objectives of this Working Group are: 1. To seek representation from each member network to form a horizontal Policy Development Working Group. 2. To develop a briefing note about IPECP that aligns with existing policy statements regarding the health of populations. For example, the statement might include an overarching description of the problem (current state and desired state), definitions, and longitudinal evaluation metrics. 3. To update the Framework of Action on Interprofessional Education and Collaborative Practice (2010) and the Sydney Declaration.
Working Group	Facilitator: José Rodrigues & Barbara Maxwell Team members: Ruby Grymonpre, Johanna Dahlberg, Daniel Kambey, John Gilbert

To inform policy, an IPECP briefing note will have recommendations that are crucial in addressing and solving the issues or providing additional information about the IPECP topic).	30 June 2020 (80h)
	Working Group of 6	In consultation with INTERPROFESSIONAL.GLOBAL member networks update relevant documents, such as publications produced by the World Health Organization (WHO), Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), CAIPE and others that present the policy approach to implementation of IPECP.	30 September 2020 (320h)

10.4 RESEARCH WORKING GROUP

Description	To inform the priorities and actions of INTERPROFESSIONAL.GLOBAL, the current situation of IPECP globally needs to be known. Along with the rapid growth and setbacks of IPECP around the globe, the current condition of the IPECP movement has changed a lot since the previous effort to conduct a situational analysis. Therefore, to define the strategy to move forward, a global situational analysis of IPECP implementation will be completed as a high priority. This working group will be responsible for conducting such a situational analysis. Close collaboration with GRIN2Theory will be sought to conduct this research and to inform and encourage other research priorities.
Objective	In order to provide information on the global status of IPECP the objectives of the Research Working Group are <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To conduct a global situational analysis by means of a survey through our member networks • To foster close collaboration with GRIN2Theory to conduct and encourage IPECP research.
Working Group	Facilitator: Daniel Kambey Working group members: Ruby Grymonpre, Barbara Maxwell, Stefanus Snyman, Hiromitsu Shinozaki
Plans	Responsible person(s)	Actions / Plans	Target date (1768 hours)

	Ruby / Daniel	Reach an understanding how INTERPROFESSIONAL.GLOBAL can collaborate with GRIN2Theory on this and other research projects	30 November 2018
	Representatives of each partner network and GRIN2Theory	The working group will liaise with the other working groups by <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Developing a research protocol, including a survey tool to collect a common data set across all networks • Submitting a protocol to local ethics committees for approval • Collecting Data • Analysing data • Reporting the results at ATBH Qatar 2020. Liaise with the Policy Development Working Group on releasing a combined report • Publish article in JIC • Produce a video on the state of IPECP

December 2020 (80h)

Outputs	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Printed report for Qatar ● Article in JIC ● Report for each region ● Video on the global state of IPECP
Outcomes	Stakeholders around the globe will have a clearer perspective of what is the current state of IPECP. Interprofessional.global will also have a better understanding of how to effectively support regional networks so they can plan for the future. We will have data to help inform funding applications and to present to WHO

10.5 ACADEMIC AND WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT WORKING GROUP

Description	In order to build and sustain a culture of interprofessional collaboration, faculty and practitioners must have avenues for enhancing their knowledge, skills, and attitudes in the field of IPECP. There is also a need to foster new interprofessional leaders for advancing and sustaining IP initiatives globally. This can be achieved through mentoring and systematic continuing professional development plans.
Objective	To support interprofessional development for individuals and regional networks, the Academic and Workforce Development Working Group's objectives are to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Facilitate activities of scholarship among IP practitioners • Assist IP practitioners in disseminating their scholarly work • Provide details on IP academic/research programmes available globally for personal and professional development • Mentor junior and mid-career faculty in developing research competencies in IPECP • Support the biennial All Together Better Health conferences.

10.6 DATA REPOSITORY WORKING GROUP

Description	The Data Repository Working Group will provide a global data repository to the global IPECP community. Identify “what is out there” around IPE/IPL/IPP/IPC. Build model of what could constitute big data in those areas. Literature scans to identify e.g. numbers of person publishing in those areas; geographic areas from which they come; background as identified in their affiliation in publication. Establish a data bank of all audio and videotapes IP interventions with patients/clients/etc as a resource for secondary analyses.

Following the exercise getting to know each other better and to get a clearer understanding of the global and regional status of IPECP (including breakthroughs and stumbling blocks) a SOAR analysis was done (Strength – Opportunities – Aspirations – Results). A SOAR analysis is based on Appreciative Inquiry, which enables organizations to build their own generative theory for enabling transformational shifts by learning from their most positively exceptional moments. The traditional approach to change is to look for the problem, do a diagnosis, and find a solution. The primary focus is on what is wrong or broken; since we look for problems, we find them. By paying attention to problems, we emphasize and amplify them. Appreciative Inquiry suggests that we look for what works in an organization. It is an alternative to SWOT in the strategic planning process, focussing on the positive rather than insurmountable problems, and on 'what should be' rather than 'what is'.

STRATEGIC INQUIRY	STRENGTHS What are our greatest assets	OPPORTUNITIES What are the best possible market opportunities
